Chicago, Feb. 25.—Removal of the 200,000 bushel trading limit in corn today failed to have the bearish effect predicted in some quarters. The market opened only a little easier and then made a sharp advance, after which a commission house selling broadened out somewhat and the market underwent a decided sag, but soon recovered to nearly yesterday's finish. Opening prices, which varied from unchanged figures to 3/4c lower, with May 1.33 1/2 to 1.34 and July 1.29 1/2 to 1.30, were followed by rapid changes, none of a lasting character. Oats averaged a trifle easier with corn. After opening 7/8c to 3/4c advance, including May at 79 1/2 to 80 1/2c the market kept within a moderate range, reflecting the action of corn. Provisions were firm with hogs. Business, though, lacked volume.

the north and south side school districts. He pointed out that with this consolidation the salaries of teachers and instructors in Dixon schools had been raised an aggregate of $8000 and that they were to be raised again very soon. The purchase of a seven acre tract of land to be used as an athletic field and playground was also reviewed by the speaker.

"There is an immediate provision for the future confronting the board," said Mr. Dixon. "We must make facilities for the conducting of our schools, to meet requirements that have been brought on through recently enacted legislation. By laws that have been passed and will be coming into effect next year, practically 500 more students will enter our schools, the greater number of these coming into the high school. The board has been studying this subject for several months and is about ready to announce its decision."

"We expect to have two junior high schools for pupils of the seventh and eighth grades and the first year in high school or the ninth grade. The studies of the first year in high school will continue in the north side high school. The plan is not yet fully worked out, but the board has it in mind to build an addition to the present high school building on Fifth St. and Hennepin Ave., and to put up a new building on the property on which now stands the E. C. Smith school."

Schools are filled up and today we are caring for 460 students in the high school. We must have facilities to meet the demand for education and it is going to cost a lot of money, but must be done. There has been a great deal of discussion as to a new high school building, the outgrowth of the consolidation, but this, too, would entail a great deal of expense. The schools of Dixon have the right of the support of the community. Nothing tends more to make better men or better women than to give them the right education and when called upon to support such a cause, the people should respond without urging."

St. Paul's Choir will meet in a rehearsal of the special Easter music on Thursday evening at 7:30 at the church. All members are requested to be present.

Should Mr. Polk retire two important posts in the state department would be left vacant, that of under secretary to which Mr. Polk was advanced some months ago and of assistant secretary. The latter place was held by William Phillips, the newly appointed minister to the Netherlands and Luxembourg.

PEOPLE HAD NO VOICE IN PROHIBITION, SAYS HEAD OF BREWERYMEN

Was Accomplished By Abhorrent Principles, He Declares.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Atlantic City, N. J., Feb. 25.—Brewers of the United States will use "every legal and constitutional means to keep that liberty and that property that is guaranteed to us by the constitution," Christian W. Feigenson declared here today at the United States Brewers conference of which he is president.

"Counting the non-ratifying states, those which have not voted for state prohibition and those which have voted against federal or state constitutional prohibition in recent years," he said, "we have 25 or more than a majority of the whole number. There are 21 referendum states, 15 of which are not included in the foregoing. In these states the people have reserved to themselves 'the power to approve or reject at the polls any act of the legislature.' They must therefore be counted as states which have not ratified. Adding these states to the 25 mentioned heretofore we have a total of forty in which the people are either opposed to federal prohibition or have been denied their undoubted right to pass upon it. No wonder the proponents of this system fought tooth and nail against letting the people vote."

"Abhorrent Principles"
"National prohibition in form," Mr. Feigenson continued, "has been brought about in the United States by the application of principles most abhorrent to the American people. We see the destruction of individual rights and we see property established and encouraged under law, amounting in value to hundreds of dollars, wantonly destroyed."

"The so-called eighteenth amendment will be obeyed faithfully by us as long as it is accounted a part of the constitution of the United States. Its misbegotten offspring, the Volstead Act, also will be obeyed as long as it continues to disgrace the state-roads in the region of Paris were given by the executive committee of the federation of railroad unions of Paris, but the secretary of the national union of railroad workers refused to send out the order."

Orders that work cease on all railroads in the region of Paris were given by the executive committee of the federation of railroad unions of Paris, but the secretary of the national union of railroad workers refused to send out the order.

It is part of the prohibition propaganda today to pretend that the American people, through their own action, have brought about the existing situation. Never was there a greater falsehood. The American people never have acted upon national prohibition. They have never been permitted to do so. One state—Ohio—voted upon this tremendous issue and there the verdict was against it."

OBITUARY.
JOHN C. WITTENAUER.
John C. Wittenauer, husband of Nellie Skinner Wittenauer and son of Mrs. Mary and the late Charles E. Wittenauer, was born in Rooks Creek township, Livingston county, Illinois, on June 9th, 1855. Died at his home three miles northeast of Amboy, Feb. 23rd, 1920, at the age of 64 years, 8 months and 14 days, leaving to mourn his early taking away, his wife, Nellie Skinner Wittenauer; four children, two girls and two boys, Thelma, aged 12 years, Allen aged 7 years, Rachael aged 3 years and Gordon aged 1 year, and also his mother, Mrs. Mary Wittenauer; three brothers, Clifford of Graymont, Illinois, Grant of Chenoa, Illinois and Joseph of Amboy, Illinois, together with many relatives and a host of friends in Amboy and vicinity who sympathize deeply with the bereaved ones in this their hour of bereavement.

His father, Charles E. Wittenauer had preceded him in death having passed beyond Dec. 4th, 1915, only a little over a year ago.

John, as he was familiarly called, was stricken with influenza a few weeks ago, but owing to a weakened condition of the heart to which he was subject, other complications arose which in spite of all care and attention lavished in his behalf, resulted in the passing of one of Amboy's most successful farmers and a friend to every one, a loving husband and father, a dutiful and affectionate son and brother, and his death has cast a gloom over the entire community.

Funeral services will be held from the residence at 1:30 and at the First Methodist church in Amboy at 2:30, Thursday afternoon, Feb. 26, the Rev. Joseph Burrows, his pastor, officiating and interment will be made in Prairie Repose cemetery.

MARRIED IN SALT LAKE CITY—

The following article, taken from a Salt Lake City paper, tells the marriage of Miss Eva Pearl Kass, a niece of Miss Margaret Murphy of this city, whom she has frequently visited:

Beautiful in every detail was the wedding of Miss Eva Pearl Kass, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Kass, and Charles Leslie Pyke, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Pyke, Wednesday evening, at the Pyke home in Federal Heights.

Preceding the ceremony a delightful musical program was given by Mrs. Charles Wilkes and Mrs. Ernest Ashton Smith. Mrs. Wilkes played "A Day in Venice," the beautiful little waltz by Ethelbert Nevin; and Mrs. Smith sang, "I Love You Truly," by Carrie Jacobs Bond, and "Oh Perfect Love," a wedding hymn by Burleigh; and as the bride entered the room the "Bridal Chorus" from Lohengrin was played.

The ceremony was performed by Bishop Joseph S. Glass in the presence of the relatives and close friends of the young couple, and was followed by a large reception. The bride, who was unattended, stood in front of a handsome Japanese silk screen, on either side of which were large pedestals filled with graceful yellow acacia and ferns, while at the base of the pedestals were potted palms and ferns. The bride wore a gown of white tulle with a butterfly bow of acacia and tied with butterfly bows of golden colored maline.

The bride wore a handsome wedding gown of white imperial satin, with overdress of white silk net and pearls; her long tulle veil was caught with sprays of acacia blossoms, and her bouquet was a shower of Ophelia roses and Japanese hydrangeas, with showers of pale pink butterfly sweet peas and showers of lover's knots in blue. In the center of the supper table was a graceful silver basket filled with springlike primroses, golden daffodils and Ophelia roses; the handle of the basket being tied with a butterfly bow of orchid-shaded tulle. The Evans stringed orchestra furnished the music.

Assisting the couple in receiving were Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Kass, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Pyke, and the following matrons assisted in the general entertaining of the guests: Mrs. Geo. Lay Gibson, Mrs. George Y. Wallace, Sr., Mrs. George Y. Wallace, Jr., Mrs. Charles U. Heuser, Mrs. Charles A. Paus and Mrs. Walker T. Gunter. The members of the bride's sorority assisted in the dining-room. Mr. Pyke and his bride left on a late train for southern California where they will spend a month honeymooning and will make their home in Salt Lake. The bride wore for a going-away suit a smart model of blue tulle with blouse and hat to match.

FOR MISS PEARSE—

The class of St. Paul's Sunday School, taught by Miss Lucile Pearse, entertained for Miss Pearse Monday evening with a 6:30 o'clock scramble dinner, served in the church dining room. The fourteen members of the class each invited a guest, making the number served twenty-nine. Flags attractively decorated the tables. Games and contests were enjoyed after the dinner with prizes going to Miss Inez Lindsey and Miss Dorothy Anderson. Miss Pearse is spending a vacation from Carthage College at her home here. She expects to return the coming Monday.

PHIDIAN ART CLUB—

The Phidian Art club members were entertained by Mrs. L. W. Newcomer at her home on Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Moore gave the report of the program committee and the plan presented to study Italy for the coming year was adopted. Arrangements were made for holding the Art exhibit in the library next week.

On account of sickness some of the music planned for the day's program failed but the members felt more than repaid by the brilliant playing of Mr. Stoddard whose music has often added so much to the club's programs. He gave "Kemenoi-Ostrow" by Rubenstein, "By the Sea" by Schubert, Liszt, "Prelude" by Rachmaninoff, and the "King's Prayer" from Wagner's "Lohengrin."

Mrs. W. C. McWethy gave the paper of the afternoon, an interesting treatment of the subject, "Tapestries."

Tapestries or pictures woven in cloth, said Mrs. McWethy, are divided into three periods, the Gothic, Renaissance, and the later French. The Greeks showed scenes from the Odyssey, the Romans of the Aeneid. The Mortlake tapestries are the most noted of the English.

The tapestries were woven by the women in olden times and there are examples of many an old English battle scene.

During the Renaissance period Raphael gave many of the designs and reproductions of his beautiful paintings were found.

Louis XIV made popular the wonderful Gobelin tapestries by purchasing them from the Gobelin family. Their beauty is due to the many famous paintings copied and the wonderful dyes used.

The Metropolitan museum contains some fine tapestries which are becoming popular now. At present there is an interesting exhibition at Field's store.

After the program, which was more than usually interesting, a social hour with delicious refreshments served by the hostess was enjoyed by the club members.

SERVICE STAR LEGION—

On Tuesday the Service Star Legion met in O. A. R. hall for its regular meeting. Two vocal numbers, "O Stern Old Land" and another appropriate selection, were beautifully rendered by James Cleon, with Clinton Fahrney as accompanist. "America" was then used as the opening ode. Rev. Ernest C. Lumsden, pastor of the Methodist church, gave a very interesting talk on the life of George Washington, telling of his inherent nobility, his accomplishments for our country. So impressive was his address that at the conclusion of the address one of the members arose and stated that she felt that she had come in contact with Washington himself. A brief business session followed the program. Thirty-eight members were present and one new member was added to the roll of membership. The meeting adjourned following the singing in unison of "The Star Spangled Banner."

MARTHA WASHINGTON DINNER—

Miss Agnes O'Malley, of south of town, entertained on Sunday at a Martha Washington dinner. A three-course dinner was served, red and white carnations forming the centerpiece. Place cards were in the form of tiny hatchets and appropriate table favors were given. The guests attired in costumes representing George and Martha Washington. The after-dinner hours were passed pleasantly in games and vocal and instrumental music of a patriotic nature. The guests included the Misses Julia Brechon, Volante Dempsey, Marie Lally, Mayme Whalen, Kathryn Conroy, and Helen, Mary and Marcella Grohens.

GIVEN FAREWELL PARTY—

On Wednesday evening, Feb. 18th, the members of the Woman's Social club, their families, and a few invited guests, making a party of forty, gathered at the Edgar Hays home at Polo, surprising them completely. Dancing and games were the diversions of the evening. In a few well chosen words, Mrs. John Myers presented the host and hostess with a cut glass fruit dish and a set of salad forks. At 10:30 a delicious scramble supper was served. Mr. and Mrs. Hays left the following day for their new home, Glendale, at Dixon.

TO VISIT PARENTS—

Archie Pearse, of Chicago, was here to spend the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pearse.

A TWICE-TOLD TALE

One of Interest to Our Readers. Good news bears repeating, and when it is confirmed after a long lapse of time, even if we hesitated to believe it at first hearing, we feel secure in accepting its truth now. The following experience of a Dixon woman is confirmed after four years.

Mrs. M. Y. Cox, 914 Van Buren Ave., says: "A short time ago my back began to bother me. I had a dull, heavy pain in the small of my back and it hurt me when I stooped over or straightened up. I also had headaches and frequent dizzy spells. I used one box of Doan's Kidney Pills and they entirely removed the trouble."

(Statement given January 22, 1915.)

No Trouble Since.

On April 18, 1918, Mrs. Cox said: "Since Doan's Kidney Pills cured me I have never had a sign of kidney complaint. The recommendation I gave for Doan's Kidney Pills in 1915 still holds good."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Cox had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfgs., Buffalo, N. Y.

If clothes are not rinsed very carefully after washing, white fabrics will soon acquire a faint yellowish tinge. This yellow cast is brought out when heat is applied in the form of an iron. The discolor is much like a scorch in appearance but not in habit. A slight scorch is easily removed, but clothes yellowed by soap never regains snowy whiteness.

The mission of laundry soap is to remove dirt by a process of disintegration. When the dirt is dissolved the action continues on the threads of the material. The life of cotton or linen is shortened by allowing soap to stay in the meshes of cloth.

Menu for Tomorrow.

BREAKFAST—Winter pears, creamed eggs on toast, coffee.
LUNCHEON—Baked Lima beans with tomatoes, brown bread and butter, orange cream, plain cookies, tea.

DINNER—Stuffed pork, tenderloin, baked mashed potatoes, creamed onions, apple puffs, coffee.

My Own Recipes.

In this dinner menu there is no fresh salad. But the menus for the entire day have more than evened this up by the amount of fresh fruit used. Sometimes it seems as if one perfectly balanced meal a day is about all we can manage, but all three meals should work together for the common good.

CREAMED EGGS ON TOAST.

1 cup milk.
½ tablespoon flour.
1 tablespoon butter.
Salt.

Melt butter in top of double boiler. Stir in flour and add milk slowly. Cook, stirring constantly, until the sauce bubbles up once. Place over hot water and break in eggs. Cover and do not stir until the whites of eggs are set. Then stir gently and season with salt and paprika. Serve at once on hot buttered toast.

BAKED LIMA BEANS WITH TOMATOES.

2 cups tomatoes.
1 tablespoon minced onion.
½ cup coarse stale bread crumbs.
Mix finely minced onion thoroughly with beans and tomatoes. Put in a buttered baking dish, season with salt and pepper and cover with crumbs. Bake in a hot oven for 20 minutes.

ORANGE CREAM.

2 oranges.
2 cups milk.
2 eggs.
1 table spoon corn starch.
½ cup sugar.
¼ teaspoon salt.
1 teaspoon grated orange rind.
2 teaspoons orange juice.
2 tablespoons powdered sugar.

Slice oranges very thin and sprinkle with 2 tablespoons of granulated sugar. Separate whites and yolks of eggs. Scald milk. Beat sugar and salt into yolks of eggs. Slowly stir in milk. Dissolve cornstarch in a little cold water and add to mixture. Cook over hot water, stirring constantly, until the mixture forms a coating on the spoon. Remove from fire. Let cool and add grated rind and juice of orange. Pour custard over oranges and chill. Cover with meringue made of egg whites beaten very stiff and dry with powdered sugar beaten into them. Put in a hot oven just long enough to make the meringue a delicate brown.

The rising generation of brides-grooms will not prate of the "piss mother used to make."

MARY.

BANDEAU FROCK FROM PARIS IS NEW MODEL

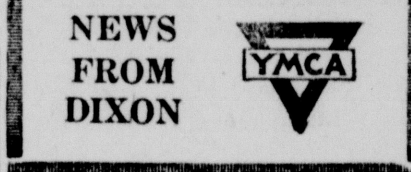

Bandeau frock worn by Florence Billings, screen star in "The Blue Pearl."

NEW YORK—A gown of Parisian origin is the "bandeau" frock so named because the corsage is designed, not only on the lines of a bandeau, but with a bandeau as actual foundation.

The gown shown is of Paulette satin in a rich coral, with a bandeau of silver cloth held up by straps of tiny silver beads. The silver cloth is continued below the waistline into a hip girdle, and the skirt of the coral.

Paulette is draped high in the back, but lowered in front to disclose the silver cloth.

Then a long train in bustle-effect is added, a band of the silver beads, marking the waistline at the back, with the satin shirred into a two-inch ruching which stands above the beads. With this shirring as the only indication of corsage at the back, the gown exemplifies the "backless" frock.

The Radiators and Pilloppers opened the new volley ball tournament at the "Y" last evening with a fast and furious match in which the Radiators rolled over the Pilloppers for two straight games. The first game opened strong and lasted about twice the usual time for a contest. It was around the third and fourth point that the game was hung up as it seemed impossible for either team to score but when the Radiators finally got started they went like a house afire, winning 15-5. The second game was the real fight of the evening and the players are still arguing over the decisions of the referee, who, by the way, narrowly escaped being tossed into the pool. The game finally went to the Radiators, 15-13, the victory being due, so they say, to the new shirt the Radiator "Slipper" was wearing.

Radiators—Rawls, Capt.; Bates, Wheeler, Poffinberger and Kuhn. Pilloppers—Schlinder, Capt. Rogers, Blank, Smith, Horner and Wilson, A. L.

Referee, Potter, Scorer, Raymond. The Thursday match will be played between the Sky Pilots and the Ploymakers.

PEARY—THE PERSISTENT

There are two types of people in the world—those who can be defeated, and those who can't. Robert Peary belonged to the second type.
Eight times he penetrated the Arctic wastes before the goal he had set himself was achieved. In 1886 his Polar voyages commenced, with a reconnaissance of the Greenland Island ice cape. He followed this expedition with another, June 1891 to September, 1892, when he reached the northeast angle of Greenland. He discovered and named Melville Land and Heilprin Land, lying beyond Greenland, and determined the fact that Greenland is an island. Again in 1893 and 1896 he made voyages to the Arctic. In 1898 to 1902 he rounded the north-east extremity of Greenland Archipelago, the last of the great Arctic land groups, the most northern land in the world. Each attempt pushed him nearer to the final goal. In 1905 he started north again, and returned in October, 1906, having reached the highest north again—87 degrees and 6 minutes.
Peary started his eighth and final expedition in July, 1908, established a winter base at Cape Sheridan, September, 1908, left for Cape Columbia Feb. 15, 1909, in five detachments, which were sent back one after another, the fourth leaving him near the 88th parallel, and Peary himself with one member of the crew and four Eskimos made the final dash of 130 miles north to the Pole! The goal was finally reached April 6, 1909—22 years after his first expedition.
Peary the Persistent finally won! It is good to know that he was an American, and that there are more like him. He has passed on, but the example he set remains.

TWO AUTOCRATS

It must make the shade of Napoleon sick to see the way that other ex-autocrat, Wilhelm Hohenzollern, is behaving. Napoleon had what might be called historical imagination. He was determined that history should remember him as a hero and so contrived to make a heroic exit from the stage which he held so long.
Defeated at Waterloo, he did not go into hiding, but wrote a letter in which he committed himself to the protection of England "my most powerful and most generous of foes." Then he surrendered himself to the commander of the ship Belleophon of the British navy, later to be transported to the rock-bound island of St. Helena. And to this day there is engraved in every schoolboy's mind the famous picture of him standing on the rock, arms folded, eyes across the sea.
He died at St. Helena in 1821 and 19 years later his body was brought back to Paris, where in 1815 he had been excommunicated as the cause of France's troubles. Six hundred thousand Parisians followed his body to its tomb.
As an autocrat the kaiser gave a fairly good imitation of Napoleon. As an ex-autocrat, hiding from process-servers behind the ample skirts of the queen of Holland, Wilhelm Hohenzollern is but an international comedian.
LEFT-HANDERS
If you have a left-handed child and try hard to make him right-handed you may make him a sutterer. This has long been suspected, and now elaborate statistical investigations seem to prove it. So beware of trying to put asunder what nature joined together. Do not try too hard to cure your boy of left-handedness.
Brutes are neither right-handed nor left-handed, and brutes do not talk. But after human infants have learned to crawl they begin to use one hand more than the other for skilled movements. At about the same time they begin to talk and to understand spoken words. Now the power to hear noises, as a dog hears them, and to make the cries that animals make depends as much upon one side of the brain as on the other. But the skilled movements, that human beings learn to perform with one hand only, are controlled from only one side of the brain, namely the left side with right-handed people and the right side with left-handed people. It has been discovered that the understanding of words and the specialized movements of speech depend upon that same side of the brain, whichever it may happen to be. So there is a connection in the brain between the tongue and the favored hand. That is why it upsets speech when one tries too hard to change a natural left handedness.

HOUSECLEANING

There comes a time each year in the life of the head of the family when there is a state of unrest in his home.
The air seems charged with electricity, needing a flash only to change in double-action lightning.
Mother mopes. And reads the want ads. And pays particular attention to the publicity of rug cleaners and paperhangers. And waits expectant.
And then there comes a day, a smiling spring day, which mother senses afar, intuitively.
Presto! Down come the curtains, out go the rugs, in come the women with hot water and scrub brushes and pails. The whole place is topsy-turvy.
Not a spot in the house where a man can sit down and read his paper.
Meals? Perish the thought! It is a buffet luncheon taken standing off the kitchen stove.
Beds? Not the first night after the morning this paroxysm of cleanliness begins. All the beds are "down," and the best to be offered is a mattress on the den floor.
And what may have become of father's golf clubs, and his fishing tackle and the best gun? What? Nobody answers.
Oh, yes, mere man, who is really not so mere, has other troubles besides trying to ease over a living for mother and the children. House cleaning time is one of them.

ISN'T IT A WONDER?

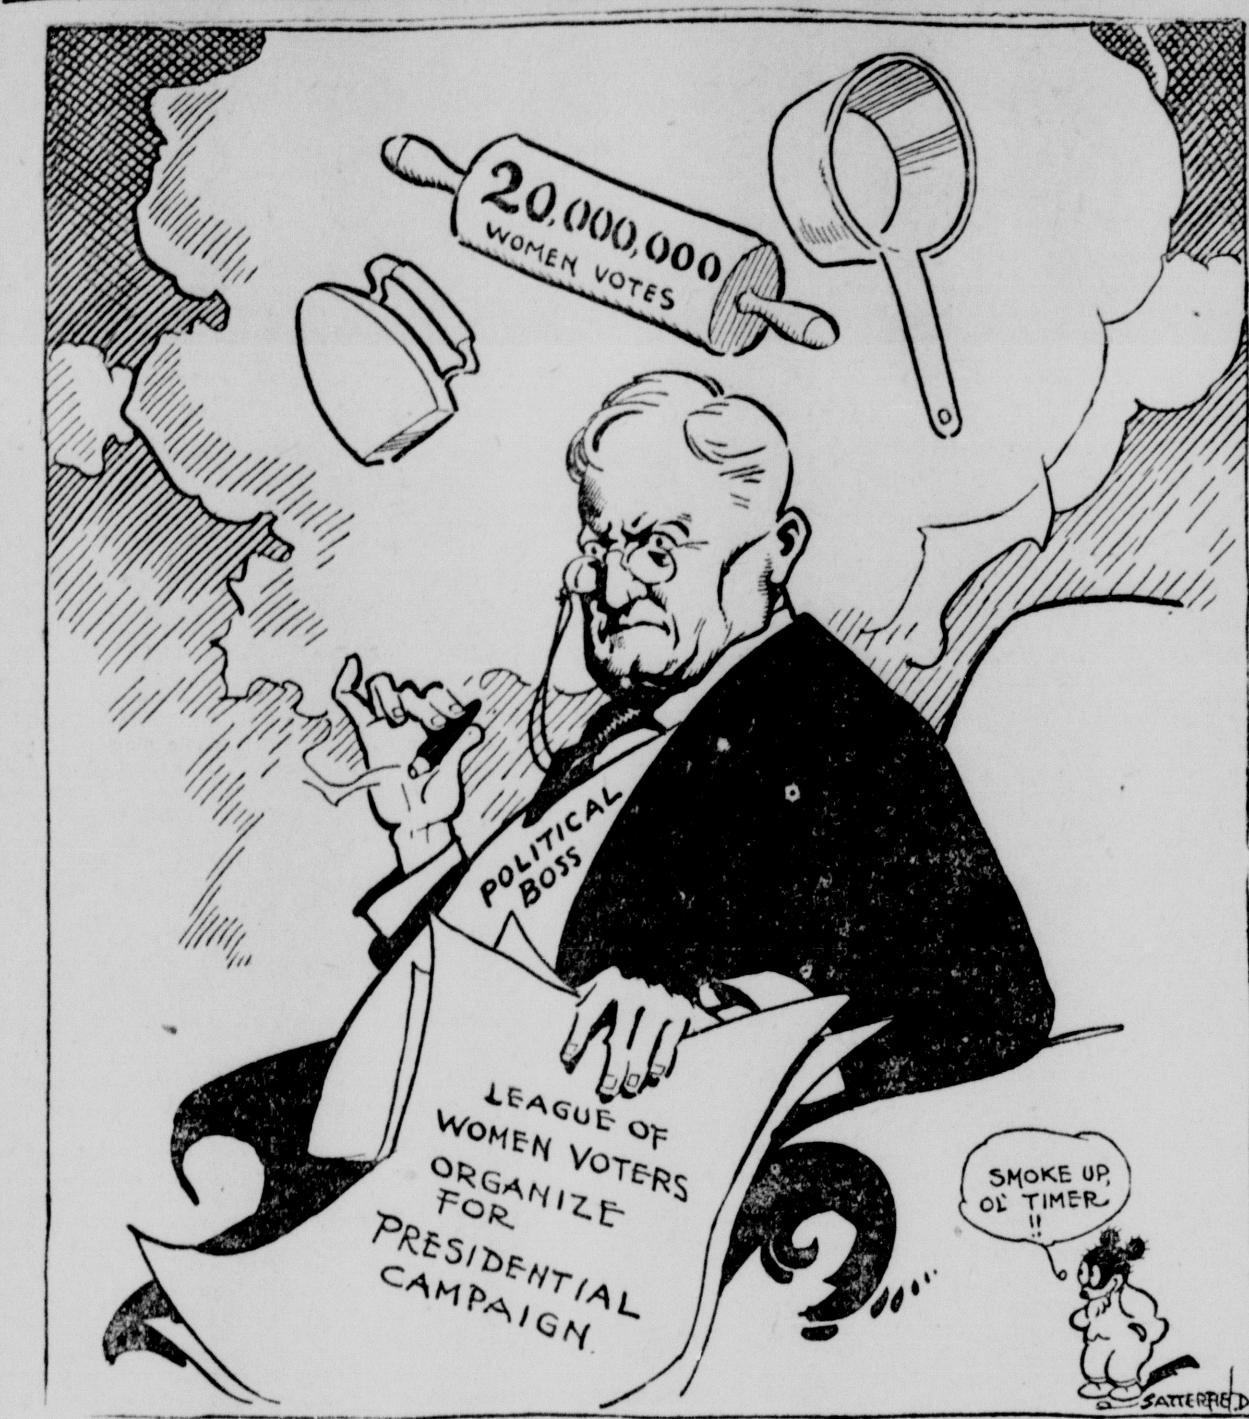

A studious chap had just finished reading John Drinkwater's play "Abraham Lincoln." He threw the book on the table with a satisfied air.
"Great book," said the chap. "It's a wonder some one didn't think of it before."
There's an idea! It's a wonder some one didn't think of it before.
No doubt folk said the same thing after "Uncle Tom's Cabin" was written. They said it, we are sure, after Lincoln had uttered his undying Gettysburg address and when John Greenleaf Whittier took the simple, dull story of Maude Muller's life and made of it a thing of beauty.
They are saying it at every advent of a new idea. Every pathologist now knows the chemistry of anti-typhoid and anti-tetanus serum. It's a wonder some one didn't think of such things years and years ago. It's a wonder some citizen of the Roman empire didn't figure out such a simple thing as the law of gravitation instead of waiting for Sir Isaac Newton to do it in 1700.

MOVIE TASTES

The other day one was struck by a piece in a photoplay magazine which was headed: "If Christ Went to the Movies." All Right. Then what? Well, the Rev. Dr. Percy Stickney Grant, rector of the Church of the Ascension, New York, says that Christ would say: "Let my people enjoy this thing. Let my church employ it. Blessed be that which uplifts, restores and refreshes the weary souls of men."
Tastes change in the movies. Years ago the "chase" and wild west melodrama and the train robbery were the things. Now, the very best of everything only suffices, and producers are hunting the world over for it. It is not yet claimed that all the salacious things have been removed from the screen. But public taste, which hits the box office, is helping. And many believe there is a dawn at hand that will make the movie universally clean. Even at this time time 2000 churches out of 14,000 are using the motion picture. The influence of the screen is, it is fine to record, being utilized in religion.
Says Dr. Grant: "The movies of today are our cleanest form of amusement. They are well censored and morality and right prevail." Tastes have changed. What pastor would have cared to say that 10 years ago!

A student of world politics is one who can guess how many secret treaties were outlawed.
Poindexter thinks Labor's political move is sinister. Sinister for Poindexter?

Something For the Old Boy to Think About

SUCH IS LIFE

George is a melancholy guy. Lank of men and sad of eye. You would think the tribulations of a hundred starving nations hung on George's countenance. But that's not why no suggestion of a smile his face adorns—when it isn't indignation. Then 't' b'gosh it's corns.

New way to solve the housing shortage was devised by Fred Harris and Gabrielle Sandrin, valet and maid to P. A. Stovall, returned United States minister to Switzerland. Hotels were so jammed with inrush of visitors, only one room could be found for both of them. They hastened to the city hall, got a license and returned map and wife.

For a wage of 1000 francs a French cabman recently undertook to smoke a hundred strong cigars in two days. In the first 24 hours he had disposed of 66; and, after a two hours, rest, continued his task with such vigor that by noon on the following day the stump of his last cigar was burning his lips.

Art Court, of Marmath, N. D. while plowing on his farm two years ago, lost a wallet which contained $40. Later he enlisted and went overseas and fought in France. Now he is back in Marmath, and, the other day as he was watching Lee Gilmore plowing the same field, the lost wallet was turned over. The bills were badly damaged, but enough remains of them so that they may be changed for new money.

Birds of a feather sometimes flock together only because they don't know any other birds.

PROTECTING EMPLOYEES.

Communicable diseases can often be detected by the industrial physician at the time the worker applies for employment, and their introduction into the plants prevented. Measures looking to the correction of such defects as flat feet, impaired vision and hearing, decayed teeth and others of a similar nature, can be instituted at the time of making the physical examination, so that the worker is able

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

A NEW ADVENTURE.
The twins stood watching the great ostrich down their fairy friend, the Magical Mushroom, not knowing exactly what to do. The ostrich kept talking and talking, and blinking his eyes, but the children couldn't understand a word he said, now their little friend was gone.
Suddenly Nick thought of their green shoes. "Let's wish ourselves a million times as big as the old ostrich," he said. "Then we can scare him and make him give us back our mushroom."
Nancy shook her head. "No, let's wish ourselves little and let him eat us. Then we can ask the mushroom down in his stomach what to do."
The little boy agreed although he really didn't like the idea of traveling

He made one grab—that was Nick! And another grab—that was Nancy!

down such a long, squeezey road as he was sure it would be inside the ostrich's neck.
Certainly queer things were happenings in Topsy-Turvy Land! When the twins started out to hunt Jocko they had not counted on things like this. "Green Shoes, please make us wee little," said Nancy, bravely. And bump! Down they came until they weren't any bigger than hop loads. There stood the ostrich right over them looking as big as a mountain to the frightened little travelers. But juts to show you how brave they were, Nick said boldly, "Now, Mr. Ostrich, please eat us!"
Of course the ostrich didn't understand them at all, but he didn't have to be coaxed to eat two lovely fat, rosy children. Especially when he was hungry. They were much rrier than railroad spikes or mushrooms.
He made one grab—that was Nick! And another grab—that was Nancy. And it was all over! The little boy and girl found themselves sliding down a warm, moist toboggan-slide into the ostrich's stomach.

to approach his task in the best possible physical condition. Without the physical examination to discover the defects of the applicant, useful members of the industrial community are oftentimes denied employment.

One of the big problems the "human engineer" can help solve is that of placing the handicapped worker where his services can be of most value to himself and to industry. By so doing the economic independence of the worker is assured, his mental attitude is directed into right channels, and he becomes a community asset rather than a liability. By placing the worker to the best advantage, the work of the employment department is lightened by reducing turnover, a thing always costly and one to be avoided. The worker has also been made to feel that some one has his interests at heart in thus placing him in his work.

The "human engineer's" contact with the safety department usually begins when an accident case is brought to the dispensary for treatment. In addition to caring for the injury he makes an investigation as to how the accident occurred and, in co-operation with the safety engineer, determines ways and means of preventing the occurrence of similar cases. He may find that the employee's work is fatiguing because of faulty posture, poor ventilation, or bad lighting, which may be insufficient with the production of glare, or because of other conditions susceptible of correction. These matters are all within the scope of the safety department to correct, but that department is seldom equipped to discover all of them or to associate them with the cause of the accident.

The human engineer's researches will lead him to consider occupational poisonings when the processes suggest such possibilities. The physical re-examination of workers in hazardous occupations will result in the accumulation of scientific facts of known value with which to replace the oftentimes erroneous opinions now held regarding the dangers and hazards of certain occupations.
In addition to caring for the accidents that occur, the human engineer should repair the temporary defects of the workers which tend to reduce their effectiveness to a considerable extent. Many times workers report for duty with headaches, indigestion, beginning colds and other seemingly trifling ailments, which can be relieved or eliminated by prompt application of therapeutic measures. By eliminating them a day's production can be added to the factory output and the worker will have the added satisfaction of knowing that his small needs are cared for in a sympathetic manner. He will also appreciate the fact that there is some one to whom he can go for consultation and advice regarding such minor ailments as may develop in the course of the day's work. The prompt attention to minor accidents will prevent infections, which always result in much lost time, lost wages and lowered production.

Confessions of a Bride

(Copyright 1920, by The Newspaper Enterprise Association)
The rooms of the bandit's cave rambled as irregularly as some ancient farmhouse which has grown by many additions. In the outer cavern, the men bunked; in the next room, the cooking was done and there the men ate. The third room was a dining room for Don Manuel and his guests. There came a number of chambers, and in the last of these I slept with Katherine Miller.
Just outside of the entrance to our "room" was one of the queer natural chimneys with irregular sides through which one could see the stars. The rope ladder by which the outlaws could escape, if trapped, hung in this shaft.
Wrapped in a silken coverlet, I had had several hours of perfectly good sleep when the soft pat-pat of feet startled me. Were they human or animal feet? I sat in my hammock and listened. Again it came pat-pat as if a marauder were taking a long, slow step.
I strained my ears for a sound from the men in their bunks down the corridor. All was still as the grave itself! Then I heard distinctly the steps of a man coming nearer and my soul was torn between joy and fear. I cherished the hope that Bob would answer my call to him across the night. If he were coming—I could wait. If it were not he—the stiller I could keep—the better!
Then from the outer room came the sound of scuffling. Steps avowedly free and careless, echoed through all the corridors.
I sprang to my feet, switched on the lights, stooped over Katherine Miller and shook her.
"Katherine—wake up!" I cried. "Bob—Morrison—have come!"
I was clad in an aviator's breeches and blouse. Katherine looked like Venus in her white night gown—under her cloak of golden hair. How I hated her!
"Dress!" I commanded her. "We are saved!"
And we were saved. And the first result of being saved would be the sight of my Bob—snatching that glorious creature in his arms! According to all the rules of drama—and the workings of a man's heart, he would do what he had set out to do. We were saved—but what was I saved to see?
"Hurry!" I said from a dark corner of the cavern where I had left my puts.
At the moment, the blanket over the door was brushed aside. Robert Lorimer stepped in—and stood still—in the very spot where Certels had stood in the early evening.
For a moment the bright lights of the electric blinded Bob. Then the brighter light of Katherine's beauty seemed to stun him. He was appalled by so much loveliness, I thought.
My husband had not glanced my way. I came near to hating him as I hated her.
"I beg your pardon," he said to Miss Miller with a quick bow. Then he whistled down the corridor behind him and gave an order to one of his men: "Take care of Miss Miller—as soon as she is dressed," he said coolly.
What could be the matter with him, I wondered, that he hadn't rushed to take that exquisite and very willing creature in his arms? I hadn't prevented him—he hadn't seen me. I was trembling from head to foot—I stumbled against the dressing table and sent the mirror crashing against the wall of rock.
My husband turned toward me.
"Jane! Jane Lorimer!" he cried, and in a moment I was in his strong arms, clasped so tight to his heart that my own heart hurt me.
"Oh, my love! My love!" My husband moaned in my ears.
Katherine interrupted us sharply: "For heaven's sake get out of here so I can put some duds on!"
to tell you just what you should do to avoid high blood pressure and hardening of the arteries. This is a matter that depends so much on the underlying cause of the condition. Attention to diet is important, and it is especially necessary to avoid constipation, heavy lifting and other undue physical strains. The condition is quite common, and is often associated with a certain amount of disease of the kidneys; nevertheless, you should not become disheartened, for often the patient lives out what is a normal lifetime. The condition, however, requires regular supervision by a physician, and you must be sure, therefore, to consult your doctor and have him advise you.
Q.—What can be done for a dropped kidney?
A.—In some cases the wearing of a suitable corset or abdominal supporter is all that is required. In other cases, however, especially when serious symptoms are caused by the condition, an operation may be required to fasten the kidney in place. Often when the kidney is merely moveable, and does not drop any considerable distance, very little treatment is required, beyond building up fat tissue.
Q.—I have a breaking out on the side of my nose. It consists of small red spots, which subsequently fill up with some yellow material. It is very itchy and often burns. Can you tell me what it is, or what to do?
A.—It is quite impossible to say from this description what is the nature of your trouble. It is possibly an infection with some pus-producing bacteria. Be sure to consult a qualified physician or a skin specialist, and have him advise you.

PERFECT WOMEN.
Five of the 1,200 co-eds at Ohio State University have been found physically perfect after a medical examination which took account of every weakness, defect and blemish. Comparative statistics are not at hand so we do not know whether this showing is creditable or otherwise. Beauty does not seem to have been taken into account, nor were any of the womanly virtues, which are so much more important than mere physical perfection, given any place on the score cards. We will venture to say that few of the 1,195 co-eds, who were barred from the select circle of the elect because of some physical eccentricity, are not worrying. A pretty face, a trim waist, a shapely ankle and an engaging personality will successfully cover a multitude of blemishes which it takes a stethoscope and a tape line to reveal.—Toledo Blade.
THE DAYS BEFORE.
By EDMUND VANCE COOKE
'Twas in the days of long ago, that dim and distant time
Before the chesty dollar had become a shrinking dime
When the home still had a kitchen and the kitchen had a maid
And the baughty corner grocer was not scornful of our trade,
When the Germans had a language not scornful of our use,
When a maiden's skirts were long enough almost to meet her shoes,
When the brewer left a wooden case right on the front piazza,
In the days before the dollar was be-jiggered of its jazz!
O, ye bald and ancient cronies, who can still recall the time
When the laundries did not try to make our cleanliness a crime
When a mother might indulge her child with butter on its bread,
Aye, and once she added sugar! and no riot act was read.
When the naughty Bolshevik had not learned to be so smart
That a handful of them might corrupt and tear us all apart,
When our lives were gently ordered, like a "Wherefore and Wheras,"
In the days before the dollar was be-jiggered of its jazz!
When the un-bejiggered dollar bought six courses on the diner,
It seems to me that flowers and friends and books and birds were finer
When every shirtwaist had a back and furry coats were fewer,
The roses in the women's cheeks were softer-toned and truer,
In the days before the dollar was denatured of its cush,
O, there were plums on every tree and birds in every bush:
There were schnitzels on the wiener, there were bris on the ras—
In the days before the dollar was be-jiggered of its jazz!

KANSAS CITY MAN GAINS 35 POUNDS

Stubborn Stomach Trouble Overcome — Hampton Feels Fine Now, He Says.

"I had suffered so much I had fallen off thirty-five pounds but since taking Tanlac I have regained every ounce of my lost weight and am enjoying better health than in years," was the statement made recently by W. V. Hampton, the well-known contracting painter, living at 6409 East Twelfth street, Kansas City, Mo.

"For the past four years," he continued, "I have been bothered with a case of stomach trouble, that has made life miserable for me. My appetite was irregular—some days I didn't want a bite and other days I could hardly get enough to eat. My digestion was so bad that it was hard for me to retain what I ate. Gas all day bloated me up after I ate anything and often I had bilious attacks. At times I got very dizzy and every few weeks I had such a bad spell that I would have to lay off from work for two or three days. I was so nervous and restless I could never get a good night's sleep. As a result I became weak and run down and lost weight rapidly."

"This was my condition but things are different since I have taken Tanlac. All my troubles have left me and I have been built up until I can hardly realize myself what fine health I am enjoying. My appetite has been regulated and it makes no difference what I eat now I digest it without the least trouble. I can retain everything I eat and I am no longer bothered with gas forming or with bilious attacks. I don't know what it is to have a dizzy spell now and I never miss a day from my work. I am not the least bit nervous and I sleep sound every night. As I said, I have gained thirty-five pounds in weight and I feel better and stronger than I have in many years. TANLAC is sold in Dixon by Public Drug & Book Co., and the leading druggist in every town."

Rochelle Club to Hold Frolic Soon

Rochelle, Feb. 25.—Bigger, better and breezier than ever, the second annual Illinois Club Frolic, which will be staged in the Majestic theatre, on Monday and Tuesday evenings, March 1 and 2, is drawing a heavy advance sale of tickets.

With 85 per cent of the club membership with "the colors" during the "World War" the show was discontinued, and it is for this reason that its revival is looked forward to with real pleasure by local theatre-goers. The Frolic combines the old time minstrel show with modern high class vaudeville acts, and the bill is crowded with bright spots from start to finish. The dress circle of thirty voices including four funny end men is assisted by a ten piece orchestra, and the special scenery, lighting and costume effects will make the piece easy on the eye.

The latest song hits are introduced and positively new jokes dispensed for the first time, making the show sparkle with wit, humor and local interest from start to finish. Real vaudeville is attempted, and the middle number is replete with vocal and instrumental numbers and vaudeville sketches that add immeasurably to the strength of the booking.

In fact the whole show is crowded with local color and the theatergoer with courage enough to dodge the barrage of local hits will be well paid for his attendance. Tickets are now selling at Pelek's Drug Store at popular prices.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC, STERLING

"Flo-Flo," that typical laugh-making musical comedy which had a sensational successful run at the Cort Theater, New York, for an entire season will be brought by John Cort to the Academy of Music, Sterling, Friday night, Feb. 27.

"Flo-Flo," has a plot, which must be attributed to Fred de Grasse. It has to do with the love affair of Miss Angelina Stokes and her childhood playmate, a worldly mother and an imposter of a Count who schemes to marry Miss Stokes for her money.

The Duke Stokes, two exceptionally well-drawn comedy characters is the background for one of the most striking fashion parades ever seen on the stage of a New York theatre. The models worn by Flo Flo, the beautiful mannequin, and her assistants in the "Perfect 36" chorus are from the shops of the most exclusive modistes in New York and Paris. It would be difficult to say whether "Flo Flo" owes its popularity more to its snappy lines and catchy lyrics or to the lavishness with which John Cort has costumed his cast. The evening wraps worn in one number alone are said to have cost the producer thousands of dollars. Among the more popular of the numbers composed for "Flo Flo" by Silvio Hein are "Good Bye Happy Days," "On the River Nile," "Would You Say No," "Don't Trust Them," "Would You Love Me," and the "Ziegfeld Girl."

Reserved seats can be procured at Rowland's Drug Store.

CHAPTER 69.

"Come dear, you will be late at the store if you do not get up at once," I said after several ineffectual attempts to rouse Robert sufficiently so that he would realize the time.

"I don't care if I am," "But Robert, they might be annoyed. And you cannot afford that just now you know."

"I know I can't afford anything! But you needn't keep rubbing it in. You can afford to do as you please even to bossing your husband, because you think you wear the pants on account of what you earn."

"I had no intention of 'bossing' as you say, dear. I only wanted you to be on time." I tried not to be angry with him. I realized that he probably had a headache, and felt miserably after his indulgence of the night before. He was pale, and as he raised himself in bed I noticed his hands were shaking.

"Oh, I'll get up! You needn't stand over me like that!" I moved to the other side of the room and didn't speak again until he was dressed. Then I asked: "Shall we have breakfast brought up?"

"If you want to eat with me, you will. I have gone into that blamed dining room for the last time. I told you so last night, and I meant it."

I made no reply, but rang for the maid, told her to serve our breakfast in our room.

"Be sure everything is nice and hot, Mary, especially the coffee." I slipped a quarter into her hand.

"Yes, ma'am." While waiting I thought it might arouse Robert to tell him something of the conversation Mary and I had had about her lack of education.

"She said she was ashamed before Gardner Kenyon," I told him. "There's a lucky chap if he gets Mary Ryan."

"Why so lucky? Of course I am fond of Mary, but socially she isn't Gardner's equal."

"Society be damned! What a man wants when he gets married is a home! And the man who gets Mary Ryan will have a nifty one or I'm mistaken. I hope she lands Kenyon. They will make a great pair."

"Robert what ails you? You never used to swear, or to be careless in your speech. I can't imagine what has come over you lately. Do you know you have?"

"Never mind finishing what you have to say. I know it all. Here comes that girl. Give me my coffee and I'll get out."

Fortunately the coffee was fairly good, and hot. He gulped down two cups, but refused to eat anything. Simply made a wry face when I asked him to please eat a little toast.

"Come home early, Robert," I said as he started away without kissing me good-bye as usual. I was hurt at the omission, but I was also proud. I would not ask for a caress.

"I'll get my dinner before I come in," "Oh, don't do that! Come home and we will both go out."

"Very well, but I'll pay my share and you can pay yours."

"Anything to please you, Robert, so long as you don't leave me alone. He flung himself out of the room, and I heard the front door slam when he went out. He was a new Robert, one I scarcely knew. I wondered what had come over him. It couldn't be that his position made him so unhappy that he had to take to drink. Could it be possible that he had meant what he had said about being thru if he could not have a home of his own?

My heart almost stopped beating as I thought what that would mean—thru! Thru with me! Perhaps to go to Marion Hovey. The thought was torture. But he had not been himself when he said it. I would wait until he was feeling better, then talk to him. All day I heard:

"If I can't have a home of my own—if it is only two rooms—I am thru." Even when selling hats I could hear him repeat that sentence until I felt as if I would scream.

"A home of his own"—why he didn't earn enough to pay for one room in a good locality.

MILLIONS Suffer from Acid-Stomach

Millions of people suffer year after year from ailments affecting practically every part of the system. The action of the stomach can be traced directly to acid-stomach. Here is the reason: poor digestion means poor nourishment of the different organs and tissues of the body. The blood is impoverished—becomes weak, thin, sluggish. Ailments of many kinds spring from such conditions. Biliousness, rheumatism, hump, sciatica, general weakness, loss of power and energy, headache, insomnia, nervousness, mental depression—even more serious ailments such as catarrh and cancer of the stomach, intestinal ulcers, cirrhosis of the liver, heart trouble—all of these can often be traced directly to acid-stomach.

Keep a sharp lookout for the first symptoms of acid-stomach—indigestion, heartburn, belching, food repeating, that awful painful bloating after eating and sour gas—eat stomach. EATONIC, the wonderful modern remedy for acid-stomach, is guaranteed to bring quick relief from these stomach troubles. Thousands say they never dreamed that anything could bring such speedy relief—and make them feel so much better in every way. Try EATONIC and you, too, will be just as enthusiastic in its praise. Make your life live—no aches or pains—no blues or melancholy—no more of that tired, listless feeling. Be well and strong. Get back your physical and mental powers, your vim, vigor and vitality. You will always be weak and ailing as long as you have acid-stomach. So get rid of it now. Take EATONIC Tablets—liberal taste good—you eat them like a bit of candy. Your druggist has EATONIC—50 cents for a big box. Get it from him today and if you are not satisfied he will refund your money.

To Keep Treaty Before Senate

Washington, Feb. 24.—Uninterrupted senate consideration of the peace treaty until a vote is reached on ratification will begin Thursday under a plan announced in the senate today by Senator Lodge, the republic leader. The suggestion was received without objection from the democratic side.

The decision to keep the treaty up continually was regarded generally as likely to bring quickly to a decision the conflict of opinion among the democrats regarding reservations.

Democratic senators who believe the republican reservation should be accepted continued their movement for a party caucus to discuss policy and predicted that such a meeting would be held before the end of the week.

Returning today after an absence of two days Senator Hitchcock, the democratic leader, said he had not been approached with the proposal for a party caucus.

"If any considerable number of democrats want such a conference," he said, "I certainly shall not oppose the suggestion."

Trade Balance in Favor of America

Washington, Feb. 24.—Despite the foreign exchange situation the trade balance in favor of the United States increased to $257,000,000 in January, figures made public today by the Department of Commerce show. Both exports and imports showed an advance, the value of goods sent out of the country being $731,000,000 and that of those received $474,000,000.

Gold imports for the seven months period amounted to $38,000,000 as compared with $14,000,000 in 1919 and exports $31,000,000 against $23,000,000 last year.

Exports of silver for the same period amounted to $122,000,000 compared with $179,000,000 in the corresponding period the year before.

Ho! Hum! Another Inquiry Into Meat Business Started

New York, Feb. 24.—Another congressional inquiry into the meat packing industry began today before the house agriculture committee, but was determined upon only after prolonged discussion.

Representative John W. Rainey, democrat, Illinois, said since that 1916 there had been five such inquiries and other members suggested that the records of those investigations be used as evidence in the hearings on the bill for regulation of the packing industry.

Finally, however, the committee voted, 10 to 3, to hold hearings and summon witnesses. Representative Tincher, republican, Kansas, declaring that the "stock producers are going bankrupt, the packers are rolling in wealth, and the consumer is facing want."
